

Organize Before You Go

How to Prepare for Your Tour

Touring Without a Plan = Burnout + Blurry Floor Plans

Touring apartments can be exciting—but without a little structure, they all start to blend together. Before you hit the road, take 15–20 minutes to organize your plan so each tour gives you the info (and the vibes!) you need to make a confident decision.

Schedule Strategically

-  Max 3 tours per day. Trust us—more than that and you'll forget what you saw where, get cranky, or make a rushed choice.
-  Confirm details in advance. Double-check tour times, parking info, and who you'll be meeting.
-  Space them out. Leave at least 20 minutes between tours for drive time, notes, or just a breather.

Use Your Apartment Shopping Guide

The Noon Knows Apartment Shopping Guide helps you:

- ✓ Track pricing, square footage, specials
- ✓ Log vibes, red flags, and team interactions
- ✓ Compare apples to apples after the tours are done

✨ Pro Tip: Fill out as much as possible before your visit using online research. Then complete the rest on-site!

Prepare to Snap + Track

Photos are your friend—if you know what you're photographing. Before you go:

-  Create a folder on your phone for each property
-  Snap wide shots + details (e.g., view, closets, finishes)
-  Take pics of model unit signs or brochures to jog your memory
-  Label each photo set with the apartment name so they don't get mixed up

What to Bring

- ☐ Walking shoes (seriously—some tours cover a lot of ground)
- ☐ Notebook or printed copy of your Shopping Guide
- ☐ Your phone (fully charged!) for pics and questions
- ☐ Water & a snack (you're touring, not sprinting)
- ☐ Questions! Use your pre-tour research and ChatGPT prompts to prep a few smart asks

 Remember: You're not just choosing a unit. You're choosing where you'll live your life. Take your time, stay organized, and trust your gut.
